

Pursuit DC 235

Designed for fishing, made for fun.

Big enough to take the whole family offshore for a day of adventure yet compact enough to easily tow, Pursuit's new DC 235 checks a lot of boxes for Great Lakes boaters.

Following a traditional dual console floor plan, the DC 235 packs a lot of interior space into its 23-foot length. It carries its 8-foot, 6-inch beam forward of the windshield, creating an impressively wide and spacious bow seating area. Wrap-around lounge seats make a great spot to soak up the sun, or pop in the removable, pedestal-mount fiberglass table to convert this space into a comfortable dining area. A self-draining anchor locker up front is a nice touch.

"The massive in-floor storage locker located between the helm and passenger console speaks to this boat's family-friendly versatility," says Craig Duchow of CenterPointe Yacht Services, headquartered in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. "It's the ideal spot to store bulky items like skis, and its wide lid is supported by a gas ram, leaving both hands free for stowing or retrieving gear."

The helm is clean and clear, with plenty of room to mount large, multi-function displays. Left of the 15-inch, polished stainless steel steering wheel (with tilt and hydraulic steering) is the control head for the standard Jenson AM/FM four-speaker stereo. A Ritchie Explorer compass sits atop the console.

The flowing, wrap-around, anodized aluminum walk-through windshield gives the DC 235 a clean and fresh profile. Driver and companion ride on plush, upholstered bucket seats with flip-up bolsters. The aft portion of the helm seat base contains a 15-gallon insulated fiberglass bait well, while the port seat features a handy cooler.

The large passenger console conceals a spacious head compartment with a 12-volt light. Heading aft, the rear bench seat features a fold-down seat bottom, allowing you to easily stow it for more cockpit space when fishing. The cockpit floor is fiberglass non-skid, which, along with the DC 235's standard raw water washdown and self-draining cockpit, makes end-of-day cleanups a snap.

With a single 250-horsepower outboard, Pursuit's DC 235 will do 45 mph at WOT (or cruise comfortably all day at 30 mph) and comes in a variety of hull colors. ★
